

Academic Honesty

I _____ understand that being in an AP class will require more of my time for the completion of assignments, reading and studying. I also understand that there is a high level of academic honesty that accompanies an AP class. I shall not engage in academic dishonesty at any time while I am a student in this class.

Academic dishonesty is defined as but not limited to the following. Cheating on any test or quiz. All tests and quizzes are on the computer. It shall be considered cheating if you have any other tabs/web sites open while taking your test/quiz. Cheating on a test/quiz will result on a zero for that test/quiz with no chance of making that test/quiz up. Plagiarism will not be tolerated. All research papers are to be turned in to turnitin.com. There is no acceptable level of plagiarism. All papers will be reviewed with you individually and any issues of plagiarism will be addressed at that time. Copying of another's work is to be considered dishonest. If it is found that your work is identical/similar to any other students work in AP Psychology both parties will receive a zero for the assignment with no chance of making the assignment up. Working on assignments with partners/friends is acceptable as long as all parties turn in individual assignments.

By reading the above and signing below I understand that it is my responsibility in this class to assure that I am turning in original and authentic work.
