

Chapter 9

Chapter 9:

1. What strategies and devices help us remember information that requires effortful processing?
2. How and where does the brain physically store memories?
3. What cues or associations help us access our stored memories?
4. What causes us to forget, misremember, or produce false and inaccurate memories?
5. How might we apply memory principles in everyday situations?